The Tools for Readers, Writers and Thinkers

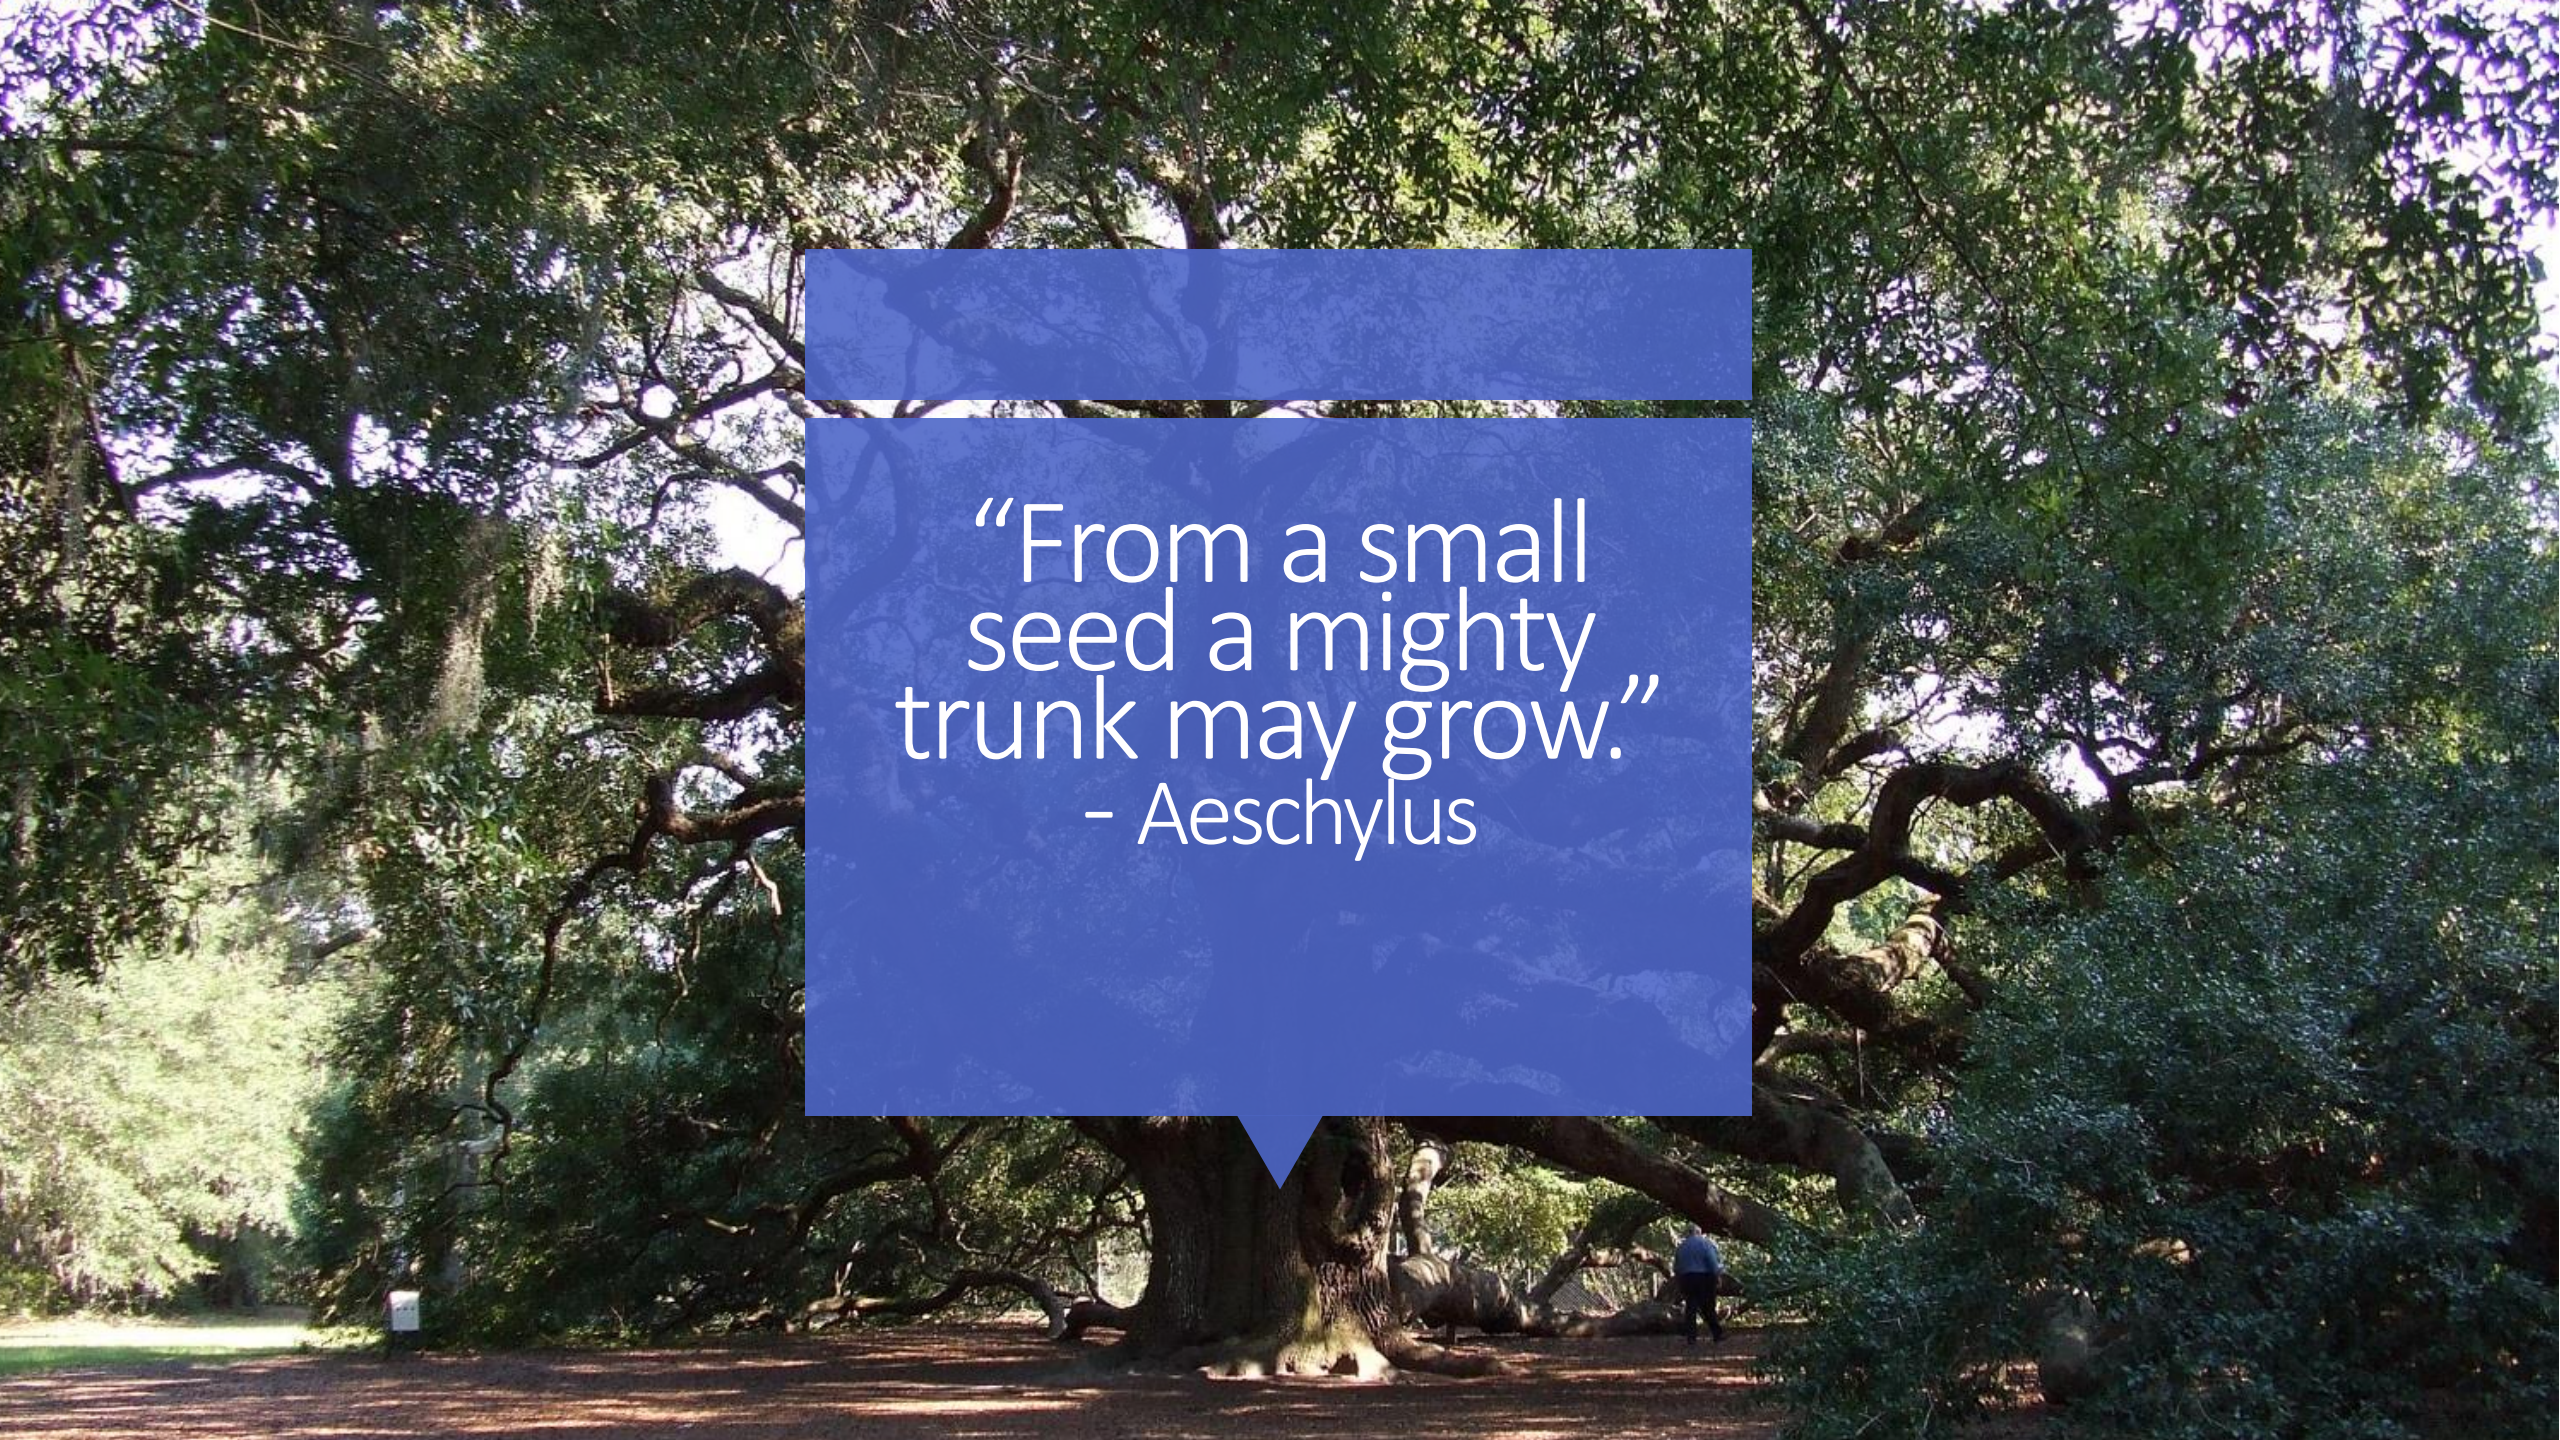
Enlightening English Language Arts with GeoInquiries™ and Story Maps

with Barbaree Ash Duke

Esri Education Conference 2017

Overview

- Like the GIS discipline, teaching literature and writing is one of the first stops in introducing students to analysis. We'll explore how Esri's GeoInquiries and Story Maps are excellent tools to enlighten a traditional humanities subject and give students of any age insights into literature and its connection to real world data with GIS. Literature and GIS together create a landscape for students' insights to grow.



“From a small seed a mighty trunk may grow.”
- Aeschylus

Student Projects
A Thousand Splendid Suns* by Khaled Hosseini explores women's roles in Afghanistan.
Each class was divided into research groups: Gender, Religion, Politics and War, Economy, and Tribal/ethnic groups.
Each group gathered information, created maps, and presented story map presentations of their research.
Thanks to Nancy Wohl and her students at Sacred Heart Academy in New Orleans, LA for sharing their story maps.

"Travel is fatal to prejudice, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness, and many of our people need it sorely on these accounts. Broad, wholesome, charitable views of men and things cannot be acquired by vegetating in one little corner of the earth all one's lifetime." – Mark Twain
