Abstract

Customized Base Data Tools for Your Entire Organization
Track: State and Local Government
Author(s): Jeffrey Shafer

To some people the term "GIS" refers to creating data, to other people it means advanced spatial analysis, and to others it means using a simple map. All of these users, though, have a common problem: How do I quickly locate shapefiles and images and add them to the ArcView or ArcMap project? Faced with that problem, the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources has created a set of tools to make adding state-wide data fast and easy. Since the tools were first implemented the Department's efficiency and effectiveness have greatly increased.
